

 Yun Yang Temple Public Notice *****

Dear Friends and Visitors

Further to our last Public Notice in February, the World Health Organization has announced that the world is now in coronavirus pandemic and the world should do more to face the challenges as one big family. In light of various countries including the Australian government, taking strong measures towards containing the outbreak, Yun Yang Temple is taking responsible action to support the calling.

The coronavirus (COVID-19) is highly contagious, with a long incubation period and carriers can display little or no specific symptoms, causing much concern and insecurity to the public. Beside China, now Japan, South Korea, Italy, Europe, Iran and USA have reported large-scale infections.

At present, there are examples of mass infection in churches in Singapore and South Korea. It was reported that there is mass infection in a Buddhist temple in Hong Kong as well. Yun Yang Temple is a public place. Many Buddhist friends and new acquaintances from various communities come to visit us every Sunday. They congregate in the Main Shrine, Meditation Hall, and Dining Hall. In order to protect the health and life of the public as well as our Buddhist communities, Yun Yang Temple has decided to extend the temporarily closure of its opening to the public until further notice.

We apologize for any inconvenience caused!
